Full-Day Islamic and Coptic Cairo Tour and Egyptian Museum

Coptic Egypt and Islamic Egypt: Christianity entered Egypt in the middle of the first century AD when St. Mark entered Alexandria and founded the first church in Egypt and the whole of Africa.

The Islamic era is one of the most important eras in Egypt's history because of the profound ideological, political and social transformations it brought about in the structure of Egypt's state and people. This era lasted for about eight and a half centuries, beginning with the Islamic conquest of Egypt by Amr ibn al-As.

Do not miss visiting the Egyptian Museum, which includes its collections from all dynasties and historical periods in Egypt, through which you will be able to learn a lot of amazing information, such as the most famous scribe and Tutankhamun's artifacts, in addition to the Narmer painting.
