One of Egypt's most significant archaeological sites is Saqqara. Some of the most striking pyramids and tomb complexes in the nation may be found there, and it served as the burial place for the aristocracy of ancient Egypt. The Saqqara necropolis is conveniently accessible from Cairo and is situated just south of the metropolis. Numerous travel companies provide full-day excursions to Saqqara from Port Said Port, which usually include stops at the Step Pyramid Complex and the Pyramids of Djoser. Constructed in the 27th century BC, the Pyramids of Djoser are the earliest stone pyramids in the world. A few hundred years later, the Step Pyramid Complex was constructed, and it contains the Tomb of Pharaoh Djoser. Both of these sites are incredibly impressive and offer a unique insight into ancient Egyptian culture.

Full-day tour to Saqqara from Port Said Port

The Cairo Top Tours agent will first show you to the private vehicle that is waiting outside for you to be taken from the port to the Sakkara. Saqqara is the country of the rich. Memphis, the capital of ancient Egypt, had one of its main cemeteries on the desert plateau above the present-day community of Saqqara for thousands of years. The area encompassed the location where the rulers choose to exercise their authority.

Along with other magnificent, painted tombs of high officials in ancient Egypt, you may also see and explore the Pyramid of King Unas, which is known for its amazing texts inside, and the Small Pyramid of King Titi.

We will then proceed to Saqqara, the largest tomb of the Old Kingdom and the most beautiful monument in Meriruka. Its wall relief of the interior courtyard and entry gateway highlights the king's pivotal position as a rival. Sakkara, the capital of Egypt, was selected to govern large populations, such as the Egyptian society, and initiate new eras of governing structures. Additionally, you will see the tombs of the nobles, including as those of the two brothers Niankhnom and Khnomhotep, and Irukaptah, which features well-known depictions of everyday life in ancient Egypt. The tour also includes a visit to the museum of Imhotep, the man who designed the ancient Egyptian step pyramid.

When your journey is finally over, you will be able to ask your guide about having an optional meal. In the end, we return you to port said port.
